this trio of plays centers around the idea of wolves rather than the animal itself wolves though revered by traditional cultures around the world for their strengths intelligence courage sense of family have been much persecuted by modern culture these three plays explore the metaphor of wolf in very different ways the first one act play Red the Pigs and the Wolf takes apart the tale of Little Red Riding Hood puts it back together again with a humorous humanistic portrait of woman wolf Lone Wolf Invisible Wolf is a film noirish study of a barroom family how they keep the wolf from the door one winter night thick as thieves a two act comedy drama takes a long look at the lives of burglars finds them little different from the other side of the law these plays make great reading for drama enthusiasts animal lovers alike
